Premiere Consulting: Weather Services That Increase Efficiency and Decrease Costs

“Forecasting firms ice prediction, avoids giving clients a snow job”

*The Kansas City Business Journal
February 16 - 22, 2004*

“Based on [Weather or Not’s] report, Jackson County crews began laying down salt at midnight in an attempt to mitigate freezing rain. When the storm hit, the county ran a skeleton crew. Sam Davis, the county’s Superintendent of Road and Bridge Maintenance said that decision saved about $5,000 in wages. Prairie Village Public Works Director Bob Pryzby said the city saved $3,000.”

“The accurate and up-to-date forecasts helped us schedule projects more effectively. Your service surpassed our expectations.”

*James Evans, Public Works Maintenance Supervisor
The City of Overland Park, Kansas*

“We have been able to alert our crews and schedule them in a timely manner that has saved us wasted downtime. We look forward to working with you on whatever mother nature decides to throw our way”

*Harry Stennett, Operations Director
Greene County Highway Department*

“Your accuracy on storm arrival and duration have been uncanny. A service we find extremely beneficial is the 24 hour contact. We have used this service numerous times to help make decisions. We express our deepest appreciation to you and the staff at Weather or Not for the service you provide to us.”

*Chris Yarnell, PE
Director, Department of Public Works
Cole County, Missouri*
